

OUR STORY

I started Iron Maltese Athletics in 2014 as a solution to an issue I saw in the fire service. I felt as though not everyone looked at the job as a athletic endeavor. Just as much as it is our duty to be proficient in the skills associated with being a firefighter it was also our duty to be the greatest athletes we could be. For some this was not a new concept, but for others this was a culture change. We needed to change our mindset to being occupational athletes. This carried over into other fields as well. Police, military, medic services, security, nursing, you name it... We were changing the game on "sport specific training" for people in a non traditional sport. From strength and conditioning programs, injury prevention, and wellness coaching we were spreading the word on making your health the priority to provide the best service possible to your profession, your family, and your life.

The Iron Maltese Athletics Premium Whey Protein Isolate was just another step in the process. We wanted to add a convenient option for occupational athletes to help improve recovery to increase athletic efficiency. I personally stand behind this product as I make it a staple myself. It was important to only offer the best option possible. Whether you are a firefighter, football player, or even a stay at home mom; make our Premium Whey Isolate your protein of choice to make your training that much better. Be fit for duty, be fit for life.
